ED F. HASTINGS SIGNS
CONTRACT FOR CONSTRUCTION OF BANK BUILDING

Work will be begun at once on the construction of the new Ocean Beach bank, as a branch of the Southern Trust and Commerce bank, to be erected on the corner of Bacon street and Newport avenue and to be ready for occupancy by the first of the coming year. Ed F. Hastings, a well known Point Loma and San Diego contractor, has signed a contract with the bank officials to build the imposing new structure within the allotted period and the magnificent financial institution will be a New Year's present to Ocean Beach.

NEW KRAFT BUILDING
WITH STORES AND APTS.
PLANS PERFECTED

Preliminary arrangements for the immediate construction of the new Kraft building, at Bacon street and Newport avenue, were begun this week with the vacating of the present wooden structures which are to be demolished. The site will be cleared at once, it is stated, and work will be rushed on the new two-story apartment, office and store building, plans and blue-prints of which have been perfected and permit duly issued. The new structure will be of frame stucco, with red tile roof, and of a Spanish type of architecture. The plans call for three stores on Bacon street, two stores on Newport avenue, two double and four single apartments on the second story which will also have several professional offices.

KLINE AND REID PURCHASE
OWNERSHIP REID'S TRANSFER
IN NEW LOCATION

Last Monday, Turner B. Kline and Fred W. Reid assumed control of Reid's Transfer, which is now located at 1916 Bacon street. The former quarters of the Sunset Garage, at that address, have been remodelled and a convenient office for Reid's Transfer has been arranged at the main entrance, with Mrs. D. M. McClelland as chief clerk. The phone number is Bayview 0136, and two daily trips are made to the city from the beaches and Point Loma districts.

CRACKS IN PAVING
ON BRIGHTON AVE. NEED
IMMEDIATE FILLING

Property owners on Brighton avenue are complaining of the immediate need of the filling of the many cracks in the new concrete paving on Brighton avenue. If the long deep cracks are left open until the rainy season, it is feared that the water will undermine the paving and cause it to sink and become useless as well as dangerous. There is already a bad spot at Brighton and DeFoe street that requires the prompt attention of the operating department.

CARL SCHRODER BUILDS AND REPAIRS RADIOS

Speaking about the great and growing radio industry the other day, Carl Schroder of 4840 West Point Loma boulevard, stated that according to latest statistics 5,000,000 American homes are equipped for radio. This leaves something like 21,000,000 homes yet to be supplied and Mr. Schroder says he is prepared to fill the needs of any percentage of that number throughout this section of the good old U. S. A. Just phone Bayview 0161-J for prompt and satisfactory radio and battery service, as well as general repair work requiring the attention of an expert mechanic.

JUDGE CHAS. B. DE LONG
PRONOUNCED CANDIDATE FOR SUPERIOR BENCH

Handicapped by a crowded court docket, Judge Charles B. DeLong has been forced to leave his campaign in his race for election as judge of the superior court entirely in the hands of his friends.

These friends, however, have been most strenuous in pointing out the fact that his experience on the bench and other qualifications make him the logical candidate to vote for on November 2.

In this connection they point out the fact that during his term of office he has had filed in his court more than 19,894 cases and handled them without once being reversed by a higher court. That this volume of business has brought him experience in every line of litigation that ordinarily comes before a court, and that he has demonstrated his absolute fearlessness in enforcing the law for everyone alike.

Judge DeLong has lived in San Diego for over twenty-eight years, is married, has a family, and is well known to the beach section on account of his interests here. Last year he served as president of the Mission Beach Chamber of Commerce. The regard they hold for him there is demonstrated by the fact that at the primary election he received 106 votes, the highest vote that any candidate for judge received in Precinct Six. His popularity throughout the beach districts should help greatly toward making him a winner in the race for a seat on the superior court bench.

M. J. Brown, 5058 Long Branch, two frame cottages and garages, 4620-22 Green; $2,000 each.

Jean D. Lang, per W. H. Zany, stucco cottage and garage, 4926 Del Mar; lots 21-22, blk. 66, Ocean Beach; $4800.

INVESTMENT DOUBLED ON VOLTAIRE STREET

BUSINESS BUILDING IS SOLD FOR TWICE ITS COST
WITHIN NINETY DAYS

The new stucco and concrete tile building recently constructed by Peter Caloudes on Voltaire street, between Cable and Bacon streets, was sold this week at a price showing the remarkable advance in beach business property. The store building, with the two lots on which it stands, is stated to have cost in round numbers a total of $6,500, and the entire property is announced to have changed hands early this week for the sum of $13,000. Mr. Caloudes just doubled the amount of his investment, all within a period of about ninety days, according to those familiar with the details of the transaction. This is another proof of the steady and substantial advance in values throughout the beach districts.

POINT LOMA ELEVEN
BARELY NOSED OUT BY
SWEETWATER SQUAD

(Game Reported by Roy Justice)

Before an exceptionally large crowd of football fans at Point Loma the fast Sweetwater squad, under the direction of Coach Herb Hoskins, were barely able to nose out Coach Bill Foote's hard-hitting Point Loma eleven. The two teams battled scoreless for three quarters until the Pointers finally weakened and gave Sweetwater a safety, which was mostly due to an error of a Point Loma member. In the last quarter a touchdown was also made by the Sweeties, which resulted in the score of 8 to 0 in favor of the visiting team. Point Loma came very near scoring in the first quarter, but were unable to send the ball across the line for a touchdown. The greatest handicap of the Lomans was the lack of able substitutes. In the small group who practice daily there are few players who are not members of the first team. Byrn was the outstanding star of the Sweetwater line-up, pushing the ball across the line for a touchdown and making a safety. The Pointers did not have many outstanding players, as the whole team were fighting hard until the final whistle. O'Mara, Cline and Harrison proved the big guns in the Loman's attack. Cline, a last year letterman, reported for practice recently and showed up very well in the game. He is expected to be of great help to the Pointers in future games.

The next game for the Point Loma squad will be with Mountain Empire. The Pointers will journey to Mountain Empire where they expect to defeat the Mountain lads easily. The line-up for the Point Loma Sweetwater game was as follows: Walters and Doetschman, ends; Moody and Drissoll, guards; Buchalter and Marker, tackles; Justice, center; O'Mara and Harrison, half-backs; Cline, fullback; Wells, quarterback.

WINS TYPING HONOR

Miss Hilda Bargman, who is a student in the commercial classes at P. L. H. S., won a gold medal in typing by writing 60 net words per minute.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW CLUB FORMED

The fifth period Public Speaking class, which meets with Mr. Swenson every day, is doing some fine work in public speaking.

At present they are practicing tone drills, correct posture for speaking, and correct breathing. Each Friday is devoted to three minute speeches. This class has formed a Parliamentary Law club which holds its meetings every Thursday, the object being to learn to properly conduct and take part in meetings.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

The 8A2 class of Point Loma High of 22 pupils with Mrs. Gillespie for Home Room teacher, has elected for president, Jerry Roscoe; vice president, Marlow Fowler; secretary, Robin Johnson; treasurer, Jessie Kelly. We have also three committees, the Welfare Committee, Stanley Burne, chairman. The committee work is to see that flowers are sent to the sick of our room (or fruit). The Room Committee, chairman, Rebecca Fiske. This committee keeps the room clean, and well ventilated.

GIRL RESERVES

The Point Loma Girl Reserves held their first meeting of the year Monday, October 4 and had an election of officers. The organization of the club is as follows: President, Peggy Tatum; vice president, Agnes Frisius; secretary, Shirley Mustain; treasurer, Mary Meriweather, and Miss Virginia Williams, faculty advisor. Meetings are to be held each Monday at 12 o'clock in Room 9. Elsie Bell, attended the Girl Reserve vacation camp at Asilamar this summer and has given the club several very interesting reports on the "doings" of the camp.

TWO TEACHERS HONORED

At the meeting of the Principals' club of the city schools last week officers were elected. Two of Point Loma High school teachers were elected—Miss Williams, secretary, and Mr. Swenson, a member of the program committee.

CONSTABLE COOLEY
ASKS CONTINUED SUPPORT
OF OLD AND NEW FRIENDS

Through the columns of "The Beach News" I wish to convey to the voters of San Diego Township the fact I was not re-elected at the August Primaries. Although I received a most gratifying vote at that time, I did not receive a majority of the votes cast in my Township, so am still in the November 2 race for the office of Constable. My only platform is my past record—49 years a resident and taxpayer of San Diego, 29 years a peace officer of San Diego City and County; 16 years Constable of San Diego Township. Again soliciting the support of all my friends, old and new, I remain,

Sincerely,
GEO. H. COOLEY,
Constable San Diego Township.

P. A. KIERSTEAD OBTAINS
NEUTROWOUND RADIO AGENCY
FOR BEACH DISTRICTS

P. A. Kierstead has secured the local agency for the famous Neutrowound radio, which can be heard and seen at Kierstead's Service Station, corner Cable and Voltaire streets. He asserts that the 1927 model Neutrowound on exhibition there is radio at its best, from one end of the dial to the other. It is a superpower, six-tube set, ranging from 200 to 550 meters, and has the power to bring in far off stations and build up weak signals from small stations, all with marvelous clarity and fidelity of tone. The new Neutrowound is tasteful in design and has an all-metal case finished in a most pleasing color. The minimum price is only $100 with artistic speakers and special attachments at moderate charges. Call at Kierstead's Service Station for complete demonstration.

Half-Billion Tax Burden

TWICE DEFEATED,
STATE WATER AND POWER
ACT BOBS UP AGAIN

Defeated in 1922 by a 354,000 majority and again in 1924 by a 131,000 majority, the proposed $500,000,000 Water and Power Act is once more before California voters. This year it is No. 18 on the ballot but otherwise it is almost identical to the measure that has been twice rejected by the people of this state.

In view of the fact that the California taxpayer has already obligated himself to a total bonded indebtedness of over $600,000,000, a yearly increase of $82,000,000 since 1911, it appears that to vote an additional half billion dollars for experimental purposes would be an economic suicide.

The reappearance of this act, without revision or new foundation, is in the opinion of many of its former friends unjustifiable.

As a tax increasing measure, the Water and Power Act should be opposed by every California taxpayer while San Diego County voters should be exceptionally antagonistic to its passage. Section 12 of the proposed Act clearly provides that political subdivisions situated near the source of supply of water or electric energy, shall have preferred rights over those political subdivisions not so fortunate.

Remotely situated with respect to water supply sources, how could San Diego County hope for any direct benefit under such a provision?

Voters are warned against confusing this Act with the Boulder Dam project. The former is purely a state project to be paid for by you, while the latter is a federal project to be financed by the United States government.

The Water and Power Act also fails as a solution to the water problem of Southern California. Eminent engineers condemn such a state-wide plan for local water development. They suggest a metropolitan district plan of financing an aqueduct from the Colorado River.

Until some better, perhaps more co-operative plan of water and power development is submitted, all the voter can do is cast a "NO" vote with the hope that proponents of the measure will some day consider that a final answer.

FRIENDS CAMPAIGNING
FOR HOWARD S. JOPLING AS COMPETENT CONSTABLE

Hosts of friends are campaigning for Howard S. Jopling for constable at the forthcoming election because they believe him qualified by his past clean, competent record to give without fear or favor a fair, impartial enforcement of the law. They assert that he is not aligned with any faction or ring of politicians and has shown himself both a courteous and considerate officer and a discerning business man.

MILLION QUOTA BY
JOHN P. MILLS ORGANIZATION
FOR HOLIDAY SEASON

Positive proof that there is steadily increasing demand for Point Loma property was given at a banquet held this week by the John P. Mills Organization in celebration of a quarterly sales contest. A quota of $750,000 was answered by sales totaling more than $1,000,000, and closed deals amounting to $941,400. A new contest, to continue to Jan. 26, 1927, was announced by Mr. Mills with a quota of $1,000,000.

Many prizes, including three costly diamond rings, were given to winners of the contest, and gold was distributed to more than forty of the successful salesmen and salesladies.

Dr. Walter Thornton, Los Angeles, economist, gave the principal address of the evening. He said San Diego "was on the threshold of the greatest development period in its history." He urged and pointed out the possibility of "Self-recovery through self-discovery," and estimated the population in ten years as above the half-million mark.

HILLIARD HOMESTEAD

LARGER QUARTERS FOR
SAN DIEGO POLICE SUB-
STATION AT OCEAN BEACH

Sergeant George W. Churchman and his present force of four policemen, composed of Officers Little, Bowe, Hall and Donnelly, have moved into larger and better quarters in the Sutcliffe Building, at the corner of Santa Monica avenue and Abbott street, where attractive new signs on the front windows announce the official title of "San Diego Police Sub Station, No. 1." Under the present arrangement, the limited forces work in three shifts in order to have someone on the desk at all hours of the day and night, yet an extra man is greatly needed for relief duty and proper patrol of the extensive territory covered by the men of the substation.

HOUSEHOLD APPLIANCES
SAY BOWKER & DEUEL

There was a time, not so long ago, when housewives had any number of perfectly good excuses for any and all housekeeping discrepancies. That time has passed, state Bowker & Deuel, of the Strand Radio and Appliance Co., who are now booking orders for electrical household appliances of all kinds and also make a specialty of supplying Mazda globes and electric light attachments.

Many housekeepers know that the electric cleaner has happily reduced if not eliminated the lenghty upheaval of semi yearly housecleanings.

And now comes the electric clock which will banish whatever blame one may have been able to place upon the uncertainty of clocks for tardiness. These clocks represent the latest development in modern time-keeping. The new electric clock is entirely automatic in its action, and like the radio, say Bowker and Deuel, no home will be complete without the installation of the various modern electrical household appliances, which they can supply with promptness and satisfaction.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

NUTS are rich in protein and fats, when well-masticated they are a wholesome food. As they are like cheese, a concentrated food, they should be eaten with food that adds bulk to the diet.

Nut Bread.

Sift together two and one-half cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add one cupful of milk, one-half cupful of sugar, and one well-beaten egg. Mix well and add three-fourths of a cupful of walnut meats, broken into bits. Bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

Prune Bread.

Sift together one-fourth of a cupful of cornstarch, one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and stir in two tablespoonfuls of oil or melted butter. Add one-half cupful of stoned, cooked and drained prunes and enough milk to hold the mixture together—a scant half cupful. Pour into a well-greased dripping pan, dust with one teaspoonful of cinnamon and chopped nuts and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven.

Combination Sandwiches.

Finely chop cold chicken to make a cupful, add one cupful of finely chopped broiled mushrooms. Mix thoroughly, add two tablespoonfuls each of finely chopped pimentoes, onion and cooked green pepper, mix with the first mixture, add mayonnaise to moisten and use as a filling for buttered slices of white bread. Serve with crusts removed, and cut into narrow strips.

Ginger Bread Sandwiches.

Cut ginger bread into squares and cut the squares into halves, spread one with cottage cheese which has been softened with cream and the other with orange marmalade, or with finely chopped preserved ginger. Serve in pairs with iced tea.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

PSYCHOLOGY

ONE of the most eminent American professors of psychology discussed with his class the other day the home-run record of Babe Ruth.

"His performance is not a question of athletic skill," said the professor, "but of the psychology of confidence."

Napoleon said: "Tout soldat français porte dans sa giberne le baton de marecchal de France"—"Every French soldier carries in his knapsack the baton of a marshal of France."

Babe Ruth is a great ball player. He is a wonderful batter and a player who uses his brain all the time he is on the field.

But it is thinking more than psychology that is responsible for his wonderful record and the great amount of money that he is making out of his work.

If you could look inside of Ruth's head when he steps up to the plate you would very likely, if you could read his thoughts, see his mind analyzing all the conditions surrounding the pitcher and drawing conclusion as to what sort of a ball he will pitch.

No doubt he says to himself: "I can hit this fellow, and he knows it." That is what the professor means by psychology of confidence.

But Ruth could stand at the plate all day and and not make one hit in a hundred trys if he had not learned how to bat.

If you take all the great contests of history and pick out the ones won by psychology you could count them on the fingers of one hand.

Victories are won by effort, by intelligence, by persistence, by applied ability.

Try to win with anything less and your batting average will not be very high.

The Declaration of Independence says that all men are created equal. They were wise men who set down that great truth. To an astounding degree all men are equal.

The blind can hear and feel more keenly than those who have their sight. That evens things up.

The cripple is generally more brilliantly minded than the man with the whole body. That puts him on an equality.

Epictetus was a slave, beaten so cruelly as to be useless for labor, but his "Sayings" have lived for centuries. Do you think the psychology of confidence had anything to do with Epictetus?

Demosthenes could not talk plainly, but he became the greatest orator of all time. Phychology? Not much.

Dante was a dyspeptic. Aesop was a hunchback. Milton and Beethoven were both blind. Caesar was an epileptic. Mozart nearly starved and Schubert sold his songs for 20 cents apiece. But you and the rest of the world know the names and recognize the work of all these men.

Psychology? No, indeed. Hard work. Persistence. Sticking to a thing through adverse circumstance. That is what makes home runs.

A man who never heard of psychology, who does not even know the meaning of the word, can by everlastingly keeping at it get to the top of any hill that faces him. And the view from the hill top amply pays him for all the struggle.

Great Bridge Planned

Bids for the steel work of one of the greatest overwater railway spans of Europe have been asked by the Danish railway authorities, with the approval of the rigsdag. The steel work will cost more than $5,000,000 and the completed bridge will cost at least $8,750,000, according to estimates of the engineers. The structure will span the Little belt, between the island of Funen and the east coast of Jutland.

MY HARDEST DAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

OH, THIS has been my hardest day,
Or so it seems,
For I have had to put away
So many dreams.
Yes, I have had to toil so long,
I cannot help somehow but say
That this has been my hardest day.

More folks have said more things unkind,
Or so I thought,
And faith I did not seem to find
For which I sought.
Yes, love has turned its face aside,
I even thought that love had died:
I cannot help but somehow call
This day the hardest day of all.

But here I am, the day is done,
And—well, what now?
Sweet night will hide the clouded sun,
And so somehow,
I'll let it hide the wounds, the stings,
The little hurts of little things—
Whatever other folks may do,
The hardest day is always through.

And so tomorrow I may start
Another day,
I shall not leave upon my heart,
Like lead to lay,
The burdens of a day like this.
The dawn will greet me with its kiss
And it shall find, yes, dawn or not,
My hardest day a day forgot.

FOR THE GOOSE—

Compliments is one thing it often costs more to get than to give.

Commencin' a thing is always a credit. Commencin' more is gen'rally a disgrace.

Even in her sleep a woman oughta keep her eyes and ears open in her own house. But she oughta be blind and deaf in her neighbor's.

FOR THE GANDER—

It's a longer road ridin' alone than walkin' in good comp'ny.

As Told by Irvin S. Cobb

IZAAK WALTON IN BLACK

CAPTAIN GEORGE WALKER of Savannah used to have a hand on his Georgia plantation who loved ease and fishing. When he wasn't fishing he was loafing.

One night there was a rain almost heavy enough to be called a cloudburst and the next morning all the low places on the plantation were flooded two feet deep. Passing his tenant's cabin, Captain Walker found him seated in an easy chair at the kitchen door fishing in a small puddle of muddy water that had formed there.

"Henry, you old fool," said Captain Walker, "what are you doing there?"

"Boss," said Henry, "I's jes' fishin' a little."

"Well, don't you know there are no fish there?" demanded Captain Walker.

"Yas, suh," said Henry; "I knows dat. But dis place is so handy!"

MRS. ANGORA GOAT

"In the winter," said Mrs. Angora Goat, "I dream of the spring when the young will come to give us so much joy and pleasure.

"All we mother Angora goats will welcome our little ones when the springtime comes, for it is then that they will arrive.

"And now that it is cooler weather, I dream and I think and I plan for those days to come when we will all have young angora goats playing around us, cheering us by their games and their playfulness and making us so proud of their beauty.

"The keeper will give them hay and grain and they will think it tastes so good.

"Ah, the winter may be the time when some animals think of how well they feel.

"It may be the time when some animals are sleeping.

"It is the time when the little bears all arrive.

"But I spend my winter dreaming wonderful day dreams of the spring and of all the young leaves coming out on the trees as they did last spring.

"I think of the flowers bursting into bloom as they did last spring, and as they all do every spring.

"But, best of all, the children will come, the angora goat children, and what would the world be like without children?"

Mother Angora Goat shivered at the very thought.

"But there will always be children," said Mother Angora Goat.

"Yes, there will always be children."

Then some of the other Mrs. Angora Goats came over and talked to Mother Angora, and they all talked of the children and the springtime and of how nicely the keeper took care of them.

They talked of the cold weather which they had been having—really quite cold for this time of the year—just as all in the zoo had been having, but they always went back to the one subject of talk—the springtime—when the little angora goats would come to prance and jump and play and scamper over the rocks and little hills in their zoo home.

And Mrs. Angora Goat made up a Zoolet Lullaby which she sent to the Zoolet Society.

This was the Zoolet Lullaby sent by Mrs. Angora Goat:

My darlings, prance and play,
My darlings, yes, be gay.
My darlings, jump and scamper,
My darlings, romp and play.

My darlings, dance and leap,
My darlings, never weep,
My darlings, frolic all you will,
My darlings, dance and leap.

My darlings, then you rest,
And dream dreams of the best,
And gather health and strength,
My darlings, then you rest.

My darlings, sleep, sleep, sleep,
Don't even give a peep,
At the noisy world outside,
When you sleep, sleep, sleep.

TRAPPER HANGS HEAD DOWNWARD SEVERAL HOURS

British Columbia Woodsman Saves Life by Superhuman Effort.

Vancouver, B. C.—Caught by the foot as he plunged headlong down a precipitous mountain side near Quesnel, off the central coast, a trapper, miles away from civilization or any human aid, hung for several hours head downward, until after almost superhuman efforts he managed to clear his foot by doubling back his body and slashing the obstruction that held his foot.

Working along his trap line, he had spied a mountain goat on a cliff far above him. He fired and brought down the animal. He clambered up the perilous ascent and finally was able to reach the game with the butt of his rifle, clinging with the other hand to a small shrub. Suddenly the shrub gave way and he was precipitated down the mountain side. About 150 feet he catapulted, then suddenly was jerked to a stop as his foot caught in a small bush.

His right shoulder dislocated and his body bruised and bleeding from his terrible fall, he finally managed to reach the small ax in his shoulder pack.

Then, doubling upward, he slashed at the bush, but long before he freed his foot, his ax struck just below his ankle, making a deep gash.

After working for hours, he managed to free himself, but was unable to stop the continuation of his headlong fall down the rock incline.

Close to the base of the mountain was one of his trap-line huts and for two days he stayed there regaining his strength for the twelve-mile journey to his main cabin. He managed to reach his cabin, traveling a mile an hour over the rough forested country.

For five months he was alone, nursing himself as best he could, until a friend, wondering over the long absence, visited the cabin and found the trapper.

Bolt Picks Chicken Alive, Blinds Another

Hagerstown, Md.—Two chickens belonging to Simon Eccard, Chewsville storekeeper, got in the path of the same bolt of lightning and one was stripped entirely of its feathers, while the other had both eyes knocked out.

Charles H. Rinehart, his two sons, Jacob and Donald, and his father-in-law, Jacob Wolf, were stunned when a bolt hit where they were picking peaches. At the farm of Mrs. Samuel Geiser, tenanted by her son, Allen, a cistern was wrecked. A barn on the farm of Rodney Crowthers, near Leitersburg, was struck and destroyed by fire which followed.

Dog Cures His Own Snakebite in Mud Pond

Middleport, N. Y.—A remarkable example of animal instinct has developed in the case of a police dog owned by Henry Weiss of Callicoon. The dog, bitten by a rattlesnake when some distance from home, jumped into the family car, rode home and immediately disappeared.

All efforts to find him failed until he was discovered emerging from a mud pond where he had buried himself three days without food. He was entirely cured of the snake bite.

Girl Jumps Into Well to Save Baby Sister

Kaufman, Texas.—The two-year-old daughter of L. D. Locklin, residing six miles south of here, owes her life to the bravery of her seven-year-old sister who jumped in a well and saved the baby.

The little one fell into the well, which is 18 feet deep and has 4 feet of water. The older girl first called her father and then jumped into the water until the father could bring a rope. He pulled both of them up with the rope.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

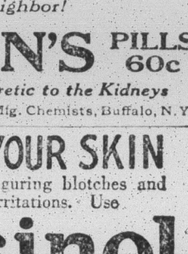
Tanlac Relieves Many Ills

Health Ravaged by Bad Heart, Nervousness and Sour Stomach, Mrs. McLean Manages to Avert Disaster. Health and Strength Are Restored. Gains 38 Pounds.



"Take Tanlac—that is my advice to everybody, and it is from one who has tried it," says Mrs. Elizabeth McLean, 4171 Lincoln Ave., Oakland, Cal.

"Four or five years ago I first used it, and ever since then have depended on it. Then I was afflicted generally—had to build up or give up entirely. My stomach was in an awful state, my heart bothered me and I could not eat. I was so weak and nervous, I kept losing weight and strength, my health seemed wrecked, nothing helped me.

"But six or eight bottles of Tanlac put me back in splendid condition. My stomach troubles gave way; I gained perfect digestion and with it an appetite hard to satisfy. I increased in weight from 120 to 158 pounds. Tanlac is my formula for good health. It is and always will be the best."

Tanlac made of roots, barks and herbs, helps build up scrawny, weak bodies, drive out causes of suffering and give the body good health.

Don't suffer pain needlessly. Learn from others. Take wonderful Tanlac. At your druggist's.

MODISH BLACK SATIN FROCKS; CROWNS GO HIGHER AND HIGHER

SATIN FROCK WITH TINSEL STITCHERY

SATIN to the right of us, satin to the left of us, everywhere flourisheth the satin frock. Black or colorful, just so it's satin, pleads the mode.

If it is black satin you are choosing, it must perforce be enlivened, and fashion has a fascinating way of so doing by means of colorful embroidery interworked with much gold and silver. One could not possibly consider a black satin frock to be somber if it had a vestee and sleeve inset of contrasting gay suede cloth, as the model in the picture so stylishly reveals. And as if furthermore to "drive dull care away," there is a glittering panel of embroidery at the front opening which uses oriental color, much silver tinsel and an array of shining nailheads in its patterning.

Perhaps it would not be polite to call sleeves "giddy," but they are, to say the least, very spectacular; in fact, most of the ornateness of the dress concentrates at the sleeve these days. If a sleeve fails to show elaborate below-the-elbow treatment, then it is almost sure to be of the low arm-hole type carried to the extreme of looking like bat wings or dolman effects. Seems as if satin afternoon frocks, in particular are adopting as part of themselves every new trick-sleeve which fashion is capable of devising. Very often the dress itself is very simply styled, until it comes to the sleeve, when, presto! all is elaborateness and novel effect.

The black satin frock with trimming touches of flesh pink georgette is a charming theme. The newest interpretation is for the deep, girlish cape collar of pink crepe, tied simply at the neck with a ribbon or caught with a link fastening. A pink gardenia worn at the shoulder adds to its attractiveness.

Colorful satin frocks trimmed with like-colored velvet are very modish for daytime wear. The most popular shades are the wine tones, dark green and rust. These dresses often have uneven hemlines and wide gypsy sashes.

Hats are entering upon an era of high crowns. To what height the new crowns will ascend, only the future will tell. To those who would raise the objection, "high crowns are not becoming to me," listen to this—most of the crowns are plastic. You touch them with a wee pinch here and a slight crease there, then pose them "just so" on the head, a few more deft adjustments and bravo! becomingness is the reward. Of course one would not want to destroy the symmetry of the new-style tall crowned sailor shown first in this picture. Its perfection is its pride—and anyway it takes a certain type to wear these smart-looking sailors which, it must be admitted, have "lots of style," even if they are not becoming to everyone.

But when it comes to the graceful wide-brimmed felt pictured to the right, ah; that's a different story. It is the kind that yields to the touch. It has a velvet band and brim binding, which is in accord with fashion's idea.

Referring again to the first tall-crowned sailor, it has several illuminating style points as to the trend of fashion. For instance, its stovepipe crown is of tucked batters' plush; its brim is exceedingly narrow; then, again, it is banded with wide ombre grosgrain ribbon and grosgrain ribbon is one of the big trimming items of the season.

GROUP OF STYLISH HATS

The supple crowned hat in the center is entirely made of wide velvet ribbon in two contrasting shades, negre brown, with cardinal.

Of more than ordinary importance is the tall draped black velvet turban. It is one of the newest shapes, deriving its inspiration from the picturesque negro headdress—a mode which is a leading theme among Paris modistes just now.

The last hat is of velvet, which goes to show that velvet is regarded with unusual interest by the milliner this season. Again we see grosgrain ribbon used to trim. In this instance it is very narrow, cocarded at the side in tall, fan shape.

Velvet is serving a new purpose this season, in that it has become a stylish medium for the sports hat. Vivid colors add interest to this sports mode.

GOOD USE FOR WINDFALL AND POOR APPLES

Preparing Apples for Canning.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To prevent wasting windfall and imperfect apples, and also the varieties that cannot be successfully stored, can them. They may be put up ready for use as sauce, in pieces suitable for pies, or whole, boiled in a sirup or baked as for serving. Green apples make a particularly good sauce, spiced if you like the flavor of nutmeg or cinnamon.

Water-Bath Method Favored.

In the latest publication on the subject, Farmers' Bulletin 1497-F, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home," the United States Department of Agriculture recommends the water-bath method for canning apples. Pie apples should be pared and cut into the sizes desired. If the pieces must stand, place them in a mild salt solution (one-fourth cupful of salt to one gallon of water) to prevent them from turning dark. They may be packed directly into jars and covered with boiling hot thin sirup, made by heating together one part sugar and three parts water. Process quart and pint glass jars for 15 minutes in boiling water and No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans for ten minutes.

Apples packed raw shrink in canning, so that the containers are not full. This can be prevented if they are boiled for five minutes in the sirup before packing. In this case fill the apples into the jars hot, cover with sirup boiling hot, and process containers of all sizes for five minutes in boiling water.

May Also Be Baked.

Apples may also be baked as for serving, adding sugar to taste and water if necessary. They may be spiced and colored with cinnamon drops for special occasions. Pack hot in the containers, cover with hot sirup and process containers of all sizes for five minutes in boiling water.

Apple sauce is cooked and sweetened to taste, then packed boiling hot and processed immediately for five minutes, whatever size container is used.

STUFFED CHICKEN BAKED VERY GOOD

Matter of Wet or Dry Stuffing Is Problem.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Select a plump young chicken weighing from 4 to 5 pounds for baking. If you need a larger chicken it would be better to get a capon or to buy two weighing 3 or 3½ pounds each. There should be plenty of meat on the breast and thighs. The end of the breastbone should be pliable and the skin beneath the wings should break easily. A young bird will have few hairs but a good many pin feathers. The feet are soft. Singe the hairs, if there are any, remove the pin feathers and wash thoroughly. Rub the outside of the chicken over with butter, salt and pepper, and prepare a stuffing. The matter of wet or dry stuffing is one of universal controversy. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends one that is dry and is made as follows: Pull out the center of a loaf of stale bread and rub between the fingers till the crumbs are even in texture. A quart of crumbs will be about enough for a four-pound chicken. Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a pan and cook in it a tablespoonful of minced onion till tender but not fried. Mix the melted butter and onion with the bread crumbs, add about a tablespoonful of salt, according to taste, and a little black pepper. Add half a teaspoonful of poultry seasoning or mixed sage and thyme if you like it. Here's another good stuffing for those who like the wet kind: Three cupfuls of finely broken stale bread, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful ground sage and thyme (more sage than thyme), one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful minced onion, two stalks of celery, chopped small, one-fourth cup of boiling water. Cook the celery and onion in butter five minutes. Mix with the bread, baking powder, seasonings, and hot water, and fill the cavity in the chicken, putting a part in the space formerly occupied by the crop. Sew up the cavities and start the chicken in a hot oven with a temperature of 450 degrees Fahrenheit, with a cupful of hot water to keep it from drying out. Reduce the temperature as the chicken begins to brown. Baste frequently. Bake from an hour to an hour and a half if the chicken is tender. The giblets are put through the food chopper and simmered in another pan while the chicken is baking. The liquor used to baste the chicken should be added to the giblets in making the gravy.

Red Sediment in Water

The red sediment in some well waters consists of oxide of iron which was held in solution by carbon dioxide in the form of ferrous bicarbonate. When the water is boiled or allowed to stand, the carbon dioxide escapes in the form of a gas and the iron oxide, commonly called iron rust, is precipitated. It gives the water an unpalatable appearance but is not harmful.

Macaroni With Cheese Is a Most Excellent Dish

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Macaroni with cheese may be prepared in the morning and reheated at dinner time if you wish. Break up a cupful of macaroni or spaghetti into small pieces and cook in two quarts of boiling salted water until tender. Drain in a strainer and pour cold water over it to prevent the pieces from sticking together. Make a cheese sauce by adding from one-fourth to one-half pound of cheese to a cupful of plain white sauce. Reserve a little of your cheese to grate over the top of the dish. The proportions for the white sauce are: 2 tablespoonfuls of flour, 2 of butter, and a cupful of milk. Grate or cut up the cheese and melt in the sauce. Season with ½ teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of cayenne pepper.

Macaroni and Cheese in a Glass Dish.

Now put the macaroni in a buttered baking dish in alternate layers with the cheese sauce. Scatter the extra grated cheese over the top with some buttered bread crumbs. At serving time, heat in the oven until the crumbs are brown and the sauce and macaroni are thoroughly heated.

Buttermilk Is Compared With Whole Fresh Milk

The question is sometimes asked as to how buttermilk compares in its vitamin content with whole fresh milk. The United States Department of Agriculture says: "Whole milk contains vitamins A, B, C and D. Vitamins A and D are soluble in fats and vitamins B and C are water-soluble vitamins. Consequently when the butterfat is removed from milk there remain in the skim milk or buttermilk only such amounts of vitamins A and D as are proportionate to the amount of butterfat which has escaped removal. Buttermilk probably contains most of the vitamins B and C originally present in the milk, and some A and D, depending on the amount of butterfat remaining.

Gelatin Is a Protein

It is often asked to what class of food products gelatin belongs. Gelatin is a protein. It contains most of the amino acids found in other proteins, but is lacking in certain ones that are essential for the normal growth and development of animals. It is, however, a useful article of food in a dietary including other proteins from well-diversified sources, and is especially useful as a supplement to milk

Real Apple Pie Feast for Gods

The really valuable apple pie is to be found not so much in restaurants as in rural homes. There the pie is carefully compounded according to ancient and approved rules, and after having been baked, a delicate operation lifts the upper crust in order that the steaming apple slices underneath may be made more enticing by the addition of butter and sugar, both being melted by the heat. An ancient practice, now often neglected, added nutmeg as well.

But, alas! Satan often contrives to mar perfection, and so it comes about that in due time pies made of dried apples appear, though this evil, thanks to the canneries, is now diminishing. Evaporated apples form inadequate material for pies, but they are far superior to the farm-dried product, regarding which the less said the better. The apples, let us hope, will reach the piecrust in their natural state, in which event Thanksgiving day should be marked by more than the normal volume of thankfulness.

Break Cake on Bride's Head

It was the custom of the Romans, 2,000 years ago, to break the wedding cake over the head of the bride as she entered her new home. The breaking of the cake was part of a solemn ceremony, and was said to be peculiarly impressive. A similar custom prevails in some sections of Scotland, where a bannock is broken above the head of the young wife as she, for the first time, enters her new home.

Turn on the Cold

Cold distributed on the same general principle as heat is an innovation of the newer apartment dwellings in some of the large cities. Instead of installing bulky machinery in individual apartments for iceless refrigeration purposes, one central machine is used in the basement, just as one furnace or boiler is used. From this central plant the individual apartment housewife can control the cold in her iceless refrigerator, turning it on or off as simply as she regulates a radiator.

WORLD-WIDE sales of quality cars and trucks

General Motors cars and trucks are sold and serviced in 104 countries. The export shipments in 1925 amounted to 119,632 motor vehicles; and the overseas assembly plants and warehouses of General Motors now number 19. This vigorous development of the world-wide market for a complete line of quality cars is important to the car buyer. It is not only a contribution to international prosperity and progress, but it also helps to maintain the continuous production program at the factories, on which low prices depend.

BALBOA THEATRE

A whale of a comedy production is coming to Balboa Theatre for one week starting Friday, when Harry Langdon brings along his last and biggest laugh, "The Strong Man."

"The Strong Man," has a wealth of funny situations, and bits of pantimimic comedy that for legitimate and effective entertainment are notable in the whole range of screen comedy. The story has a sentimental side that helps to give it light and shade.

Fanchon and Marco are presenting Henry Fink for a return engagement in "Milady's Dresser," an extravaganza which gives the New York star ample opportunity to display his versatile talents. Henry Fink is known throughout the country as one of its foremost composers, and his composition "Pal of Mine", has been sung and played by thousands of music lovers.

Al Lyons and His Balboa Orchestra will be featured in the stage presentation with the kind of music you'll love.

Al Lyons found out last week who the best harmonica players were in San Diego, now he is going to find out who can play the piano. Starting Saturday three preliminary contests will be held on October 23, 30, and November 6. The finals will also be held Saturday, Nov. 6. Cash prizes will be awarded. Applications for entering the piano contest may be made with Mr. Jeffreys at the Thearle Music Company.

CABRILLO THEATRE

"Her Second Chance," featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, Huntly Gordon and Charlie Murray is its own best recommendation. Lambert Hillyer, to whom too much praise has been given by First National, directed the filming. The picture will be shown for one week, at Cabrillo Theatre, starting Friday.

The picture is based in the exceedingly popular novel by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, bearing the same title as the picture. Eve Unsell transcribed the story to the screen.

One little girl in the cast, it is said, deserves watching. She is Corliss Palmer, a Southern beauty. Although this is the first picture that the little lady has appeared in, she is reported to have carried her work through with distinction.

Others in the cast who help to give the picture its success, are Sam de Grasse, Dale Fuller, Mike Donlin, who by the way is a San Diegan and well known baseball player, and William J. Kelly.

No Need To Vote Gigantic $500,000,000 BOND ISSUE

For Local Water Development

Proponents of the California Water and Power Act have offered it as a solution to the water problem of Southern California. They would have you pledge many times the amount necessary to develop all proposed water resources.

EMINENT ENGINEERS CONDEMN SUCH A STATE-WIDE PLAN

They suggest some form of a metropolitan district plan of bringing water by aqueduct from the Colorado River as the most economical. Under this plan, financed by local bond issues equally apportioned to the various Southern Communities on the business like basis of benefits received, the taxpayer will have propet representation.

Likewise you are warned against confusing the Water & Power Act with the Federal Government Flood Control Reclamation and Power Project at Boulder Canyon.

It is estimated that this project will provide all the surplus power needed in Southern California for years to come. Why, then, bond the state for $500,000,000 for power development in competition with the United States government?

"NOTHING IN THE PAPER THIS WEEK"

Sometimes one picks up a local paper and after glancing it over wearily thrust it aside, remarking: "Nothing in the paper this week." Did you ever stop to think what that phrase—nothing in the paper means? It means that in the week just passed no misfortune has befallen the community, that no fire has wiped out a neighbor's worldly goods; that the grim angel of death has crossed no threshold of a friend; that no man driven by liquor, hatred or fear has taken the life of a fellow human; that no poor devil, haunted by the past or the misdeeds of some other has crossed the divide by his own hand; that many things that ought not to happen have not happened. So, the next time you pick up a paper that does not announce tragedy, give a little thanks instead of grumbling because there is no sensational news.

While irrigating on his ranch about three miles northeast of Oakdale, Nelson Collins noticed the stream of water sinking into the ground. Thinking it was a squirrel hole, he went to fill it, but found that the water was running into an old abandoned well that had been covered with timbers and several feet of earth. For many years Collins had plowed and cultivated over the well and had driven his tractor over it many times. The well was eighty feet deep and it took two and a half days' work with a team to fill it.

The average prison camp saving per man has been 29 cents a day, Milliken said. He added that 98 per cent of the prisoners discharged or paroled from the camps are making good.

Educational Argument

In the rural districts of England, where children have always gone to work in the fields, compulsory education is looked upon with a good deal of disfavor. The Argonaut says that during an election a candidate for parliamentary honors was addressing a meeting of Yorkshire men when he was interrupted by a man who asked:

"Art in favor o' childer goin' t' school, till they be sixteen?"

"Certainly I am," said the speaker.

"Well, 'm not," was the emphatic answer. "I'm no'ne goin' to 'ave my lad coomin' whoam fro' t'school an' axin' me for money for a shave."—Youth's Companion.

Donald Pays His Wager

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

WHEN Donald Nash and Tom Hayes left college they felt convinced that there were enough lawyers, architects, doctors and engineers in the world. Donald and Tom decided they'd be merchants, so they got together what little money they had, borrowed a good deal more and bought a small department store in a small but highly promising young town.

"Something's got to be done about the retiraed goods evil," observed Tom one morning across the bread table that served as a desk for both. "It's getting worse and worse. A woman brought back a bottle of perfume that she had opened and used yesterday because she didn't like the smell. The fellow at the desk let her get away with it. Then the Browns bought a fine dinner set, used it for that big dinner party they gave last week and then brought it back because they had decided they didn't like the shape of the soup plates. That fellow at the desk—hasn't got the backbone of a gumdrop."

"It wouldn't do to be too strict about returning goods," reasoned Donald. "The Browns are good customers. We don't want to get them angry."

"That's just it," Tom agreed emphatically. "We want some one handling that department that can be fair and accommodating without being a doormat. We want a diplomat—that's what we want."

"Suppose you try it yourself," suggested Donald with a grin, which was lost on Tom, who replied that he rather thought he'd like to try.

"All right, it's a go," from Donald. "You take charge of the return goods for two or three weeks. If you don't make good you'll owe me a spare tire."

So it was that among Tom's various other duties as partner in the growing young department store was that of looking after the returned goods. Tom had a soothing and persuasive voice and managed far better than his predecessor had.

One day one of the millinery saleswomen brought a fair young customer to Tom. She was carrying a large hat box which contained a wide-brimmed summer hat discreetly trimmed with two enormous roses. It had been one of the most expensive hats ever sold in that millinery department. But the hat had been worn, not only just worn but worn in the rain.

"Madam wants to return this hat," sniffed the salesgirl. "It's been worn in the rain—she admits it."

"What is your reason for wishing to return the merchandise?" asked Tom, trying not to look too intently into the violet eyes.

"It isn't becoming," said the girl plaintively. "Not the least little bit becoming."

"But the hat has been worn," said Tom.

"Yes," agreed the girl. "The shower came up quite unexpectedly and we were a mile from home. You see I wore the hat thinking it was becoming, but a girl can't be happy in a hat that is unbecoming."

"But it wasn't our fault," explained Donald.

The girl brightened. "Oh, yes, it was, really. The girl that sold it—not this one—she's out now—said it was most becoming."

Donald said that the line of argument was most absurd.

"So you mean that I must go on wearing that hat when it is so dreadfully unbecoming?" She dabbled her violet eyes with a little handkerchief and then began softly to cry. At that Donald told the young saleswoman that he would not need her further. She departed and he was left alone in his office with the weeping beauty.

Finally after a half hour interview Tom was beside himself. He felt vague desires to kiss the violet eyes and wipe away the tears. Moreover he was resolved that he would allow the hat to be returned.

"Come, you are quite upset," he said at length, "let me take you back to your home. I have my car outside. And perhaps I'd better tell you," he added happily, "I am going to refund your money for that hat. I have often told the saleswomen not to tell women things are becoming when they are not. That is bad salesmanship."

The girl asked to be taken to a certain hotel, the largest hotel in the town. She bade him adieu without asking him to stop and he promised her to see that her money was refunded the next day if she would call at his office.

The millinery salesgirl who had brought in the young lady reported the case to Donald. She thought it was downright idiotic taking that hat back, she said. So Donald faced Tom a few days later with the facts and told him he owed him a spare tire.

"Maybe I do," said Tom sheepishly. "But it was worth it—worth a whole set of spares and the car thrown in. Donald, my boy, I'm going to marry that girl—"

"Great Scott," cried Donald. "Well, I'm blessed!" Then Donald explained. After having made the wager with his partner Donald decided to make sure that he, Donald, should win. So he arranged with the young and pretty sister of his own fiancee to play the game, to weep and finally to make him yield. "She said she rather liked you," said Donald, "but dear me I had no idea you were such a ladies' man as that."

HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

Year's Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ED. DAUGHERTY
1308 ORCHARD AVENUE, MUSCATINE, IOWA

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio.

In many little villages as in many thriving cities along the route, who are glad to tell others about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In a recent letter, Mrs. Daugherty says, "I was ill for four months before I took your medicine. I found one of your books at my front door and read it. It seemed to fit my case, so I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every one I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Avenue, Muscatine, Iowa.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana.—"I could not get around to do my work. I took treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle, as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicines that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and from using the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. P. W. Carr, 721 West Powers St., Muncie, Indiana.

When Cantaloupe Laughs

A scientist says that vegetables have thoughts, feelings and emotions similar to those of human beings. If that is so, how the average cantaloupe must enjoy the look of disappointment on the face of the person who has just cut it open.—Boston Transcript.

To encourage the rubber industry, the Philippine islands furnish seed to growers at cost.

Language in Ireland

The native Irish speak in English or the Irish language. The Irish is a Celtic language, which is now being used by a greater percentage of the people of Ireland. The decline in use of Irish began in the Eighteenth century and the language was gradually superseded by English until 1901, when only 20,953, or 4.5 per cent, of the people could speak Irish. The number of pupils in schools learning Irish is still on the increase.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Why Is It—

That the evening you planned for a quiet one is usually a rip snorter?—that the day you go to the country it always rains?—that all plans made between 1 and 6 a. m. never materialize?—that every time you are taken to the theater you have seen the play before?—that after you have given the waiter the order, you always discover on the menu a far more appetizing dish?—that yesterday's newspaper seems ages old?—that you can never remember the singularly brilliant thought that struck you the other morning in the bath?—that whenever you are in a hurry every thoroughfare turns out to be a one-way street of the opposite direction?—that you can never tell what a woman is going to do next?—Kansas City Star.

Poetic Intoxicant

A new intoxicant has appeared in Japan. In the precincts of a shrine at Kameido in Japan the other day a policeman on patrol discovered what he took to be a corpse. He telephoned to the village office for a coffin, which was at once sent, and the body put in. On the way to the village office, however, the corpse in the coffin revived and began to sing and dance, to the alarm of the bearers. It was later ascertained that he was a young man, aged twenty-three, who had been made intoxicated by viewing the cherry blossoms.

A machine to measure the exact color of different kinds of hay has been invented to help local inspectors in the grading of hay.

FIVE POINTS CIVIC LEAGUE

The Five Points Civic League held a called meeting at the U-Ban-O chili parlors last Tuesday evening for an informal discussion as to what tasks the members should next set themselves to perform. President J. J. Carey, after two months in the east, was again in the chair, and reported San Diego looking better than ever to him. He met many inquirers while away about Southern California and met each and everyone with a boost for San Diego.

It was the first meeting of the league since the passing away of the founder, Dr. George M. Selby, and President Carey formally expressed the members' sense of loss at the untimely death of the man to whose vision, initiative and hard work the Five Points of today owes so much.

An animated discussion as to what the league should next tackle successfully filled the evening's session. Decision on this important subject was postponed until the next meeting, Tuesday evening, October 26, when Mr. Kenneth Gardner of the city planning commission will address the members and confer with them on their problems.

The league extends a cordial invitation to all people interested in the development of this bayside section to be present.
